Childhood sexual abuse – Impact and interventions

Edinburgh Napier University, Sighthill Campus, Sighthill Court, Edinburgh, EH11 4BN

Friday 30 October 2015

Child sexual abuse (CSA) is increasingly reported in the media with a focus on its long-term psychological and psychiatric impact. Less emphasis is placed on psychological interventions which can facilitate recovery following CSA. The study day will focus on the current evidence base on psychological interventions following CSA across different populations such as adults, children and forensic populations. Preventative strategies to reduce re-victimisation will also be explored.

Who is the course intended for?

- Members of the Crisis, Disaster & Trauma Section.
- Practitioner psychologists including clinical, counselling, forensic and educational.
- Academic psychologists with an interest in trauma and fellow professionals with an interest in trauma.
- Psychotherapists.

Learning outcomes and objectives

- To present the latest research on evidenced-based interventions for survivors of CSA.
- To learn about children and adolescents who sexually abuse and possible interventions for this group.
- To consider ways in which CSA may be prevented.

For further information or to book go to:
www.kc-jones.co.uk/cdtoct2015
Speakers

Introduction
Dr Anne Douglas, Chartered psychologist, Honorary Secretary,
BPS Crisis, Disaster & Trauma Section

Child sexual abuse-impact and interventions: A critical review of the existing evidence
Professor Thanos Karatzias, Consultant Clinical Psychologist, Edinburgh Napier University, Faculty of Health, Life & Social Sciences & NHS Lothian, Rivers Centre for Traumatic Stress

Survive and thrive – A psychoeducational intervention group programme for survivors of childhood sexual abuse
Dr Sandra Ferguson, Consultant Clinical Psychologist, NHS Lothian

Child sexual abuse – The impact on parenting and possible interventions
Dr Jo McColl, Consultant Clinical Psychologist, Sexual Abuse/Assault Service,
NHS Greater Glasgow & Clyde

Interventions with children and adolescents who sexually abuse
Dr Troy Tranah, Consultant Clinical Psychologist, Lead Psychologist for National and Specialist Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services

Safe and sound – A group programme designed to enhancing safety, improve psychological wellbeing and prevent re-victimisation in homeless women with histories of complex trauma
Dr Lisa Reynolds, Professional Lead Consultant Clinical Psychologist, Trauma Service, NHS Greater Glasgow & Clyde

Fees
Section Members: £50 | BPS Members: £80
Non-Member: £100 | Concessions: £35*

All fees include VAT.*See rules on KC Jones webpage.

This event is organised by the Crisis, Disaster and Trauma Psychology Section and administered by KC Jones conference&events Ltd, 01332 227775.

This event is being co-sponsored by

For further information or to book go to:
www.kc-jones.co.uk/cdtoct2015